

THE HUMAN CONTRACT

Why human contract?

We have great challenges today with lack of individual physical and mental health, harsh communication on social media, global challenges with the environment, population movement, different prejudice (like racism, age discrimination, sexism) and lack of governments collaborate. We need to unite as a humanity – for better health, collaboration, deepening governance and increasing civil participation.

- The movement of the human contract is non-party political and non-religious.
- The human contract acknowledge that each human has both rights and responsibilities and that we learn through our difficulties.
- The human contract is based on United Nations Universal Declaration of human rights. The human responsibilities is modern leadership – to be accountable as a human.
- The human contract supports all 17 UN goals.

Vision and Mission

The vision is a world where every human understand and are living their rights and responsibilities. The mission is a global communication on the human social contract.

Values

We commit to humanity by; dignity, integrity, diversity, trust and empowerment.

Seven principles of human dignity

The human contract is based on United Nations Universal Declaration of human rights and the human responsibilities is modern leadership. These seven principles acknowledge that we thrive and develop as humans by facing and going through our difficulties. We have both rights and responsibilities within these seven areas.

1. Body - You have the right to your body, and you are responsible for the same
2. Thought - You have the right to your thoughts, and you are also responsible questioning and broadening your perspective.
3. Emotion - You have the right to all of your emotions, and you are responsible in your expression of these.
4. Expression/communication - As humans we have the freedom of our expression and communication, but we are also responsible for our creations and trying to communicate and create with dignity.
5. Movement - We have been on this planet for more than 200,000 years. We have the freedom of our movement, but we also have a responsibility whether we move between rooms, buildings, in society or globally.
6. Life - You have the right to your life to live with whomever, wherever and however you like – but never at the cost of any other.
7. Collective - As humans we have collectively human rights but also a responsibility standing up against injustice such as; corruption, abuse, burglary, environmental devastation, animal cruelty and other undignified behavior - “civil courage”!
