

Lumina Interfaces

The Anthology You Never Saw Coming

What happens if the top 1 % of global visionaries collide?

This is not just a book – it's a cultural supernova

Co-authored by more than 120 of the world's top 1% thought leaders from over 40 countries across six continents, Lumina, Interfaces is a modern compendium of future-forward human knowledge. It offers a strategic blueprint for innovating innovation, empowering leaders, teams, and organizations to thrive in the emerging Tech 5.0 era. This avant-garde compilation is a labour of love. A global network of people who care, offering tangible solutions to our modern context, a deepening poly crisis that requires a return to the core pillars of our humanity: beauty, truth, wisdom, and compassion to future proof our destiny as we speed through technological interfaces.

The anthology brings together a kaleidoscope of voices—scientists, engineers, executives, family offices, artists, astronauts, economists, policymakers, architects, ancient wisdom carriers, indigenous elders, musicians, chefs, children, cultural anthropologists, and parenting experts. Together, we define new fields and explore uncharted frontiers across disciplines including global leadership, artificial intelligence, quantum technologies, haptics, robotics, brain-computer interfaces, energy grids, emerging neurotechnology, biology, poetry, decentralized finance, game theory, social psychology, as well as the future of work,

“In a world marked by complexity and turbulence, the collision of art and science is not just metaphorical—it is a method for exponential innovation,” said the editorial team. “We are co-creating innovation hubs that echo the spirit of Renaissance Florence, reimagined for the Holocene era. This is a way to cultivate flourishing models of global collaboration and innovation at warp speed.”

More than a publication, Lumina Interfaces* is a cultural-economic movement. It invites readers to reimagine the future, connect across disciplines, and engage in strategic foresight and creative collaboration for high yield and high impact. The book can be customized for organizations with bespoke CEO and executive chapters, and offers the opportunity to host private, invitation-only innovation summits. It will give next generation curation of high impact learning and development, terraforming the mind and heart. <https://www.holo-art.io/books>
